Cyclone Yaas: Living the impact

On 3rd July 2021, the Department of Political Science and Department of Environmental Science, New Alipore College organized an online awareness program on "Cyclone Yaas: Living the Impact." The program was conducted to educate students and the public about the impact of the Cyclone Yaas on the environment and the community. The program was aimed to increase awareness among people to help them better understand the impact of natural disasters and ways to reduce their impact on people and the environment. The program was aimed to educate people about the impact of Cyclone Yaas on the community and the environment and to increase awareness about the dangers of natural disasters. The program had over 100 participants, including students, faculty, and the general public, who attended the two-hour program. The program was divided into two sessions, each lasting an hour, and was conducted through Google Meet due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The first session was presented by Dr. Madhuparna Dutta, Assistant Professor of Political Science, who spoke about the impact of Cyclone Yaas on the community. The second session was presented by Dr. Sumita Sawr, Associate Professor of Environmental Science, who spoke about the environmental impact of Cyclone Yaas. The program concluded with a question and answer session where participants had the opportunity to ask questions and share their views. The program highlighted the importance of sustainable development and the need to protect the environment to reduce the impact of natural disasters. The program also emphasized the role of individuals in reducing the impact of natural disasters by taking precautions and being more aware of the dangers posed by natural disasters.

OUTCOME OF THE PROGRAM

The participants were appreciative of the organizers' efforts in organizing such an awareness program. The program was successful in achieving its objectives of increasing awareness among people about the impact of natural disasters and ways to reduce their impact on people and the environment. It is hoped that such awareness programs will continue to be organized in the future to increase people's awareness of the importance of protecting the environment and the dangers posed by natural disasters.

The lecture on "Interiorized: Reading Bankimchandra's Rajmohun's Wife & Bishabriksha" was the 4th of its series and was organized by the Department of English and Internal Quality Assurance Cells of New Alipore College and St. Paul Cathedral Mission College. The lecture was held to discuss the interiorization of characters in Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay's novels, Ra-jmohan's Wife and Bishabriksha.

The lecture was well-attended, with students, faculty, and scholars from various disciplines in attendance. The speaker discussed the concept of interiorization in literature and how Bankimchandra's novels used this technique to explore the characters' inner lives. The speaker highlighted how Bankimchandra's female characters, in particular, were presented as complex and multi-dimensional, breaking away from the traditional portrayal of women in literature during that time. The lecture was followed by a lively discussion where participants shared their views and insights. The discussion focused on the relevance of interiorization in modern literature and how it could be used to present characters in a more nuanced and realistic manner. The lecture was successful in its objective of engaging the audience in a discussion on the literary technique of interiorization and how it could be used to present more complex characters.

The lecture was a success. The lecture provided an insightful discussion on the literary technique of interiorization and its relevance in modern literature. It was an excellent opportunity for students, faculty, and scholars to engage in a lively discussion and gain a deeper understanding of Bankimchandra's novels.

Re-assessing Partition of Bengal through Fiction and Literature

Speaker: Dr. Somdatta Mandal, Former Professor of English, Vishva Bharati University

The seminar on "Re-assessing Partition of Bengal through Fiction and Literature" organized by the Department of English, New Alipore College in collaboration with Internal Quality Assurance Cells of New Alipore College and St. Paul's Cathedral Mission College on 31st July, 2021 at Room No. 209, New Alipore College was a great success.

The seminar aimed to bring together scholars and students to discuss the Partition of Bengal through the lens of fiction and literature. The event began with a welcome address by the head of the Department of English, who introduced the speakers and outlined the goals of the seminar.

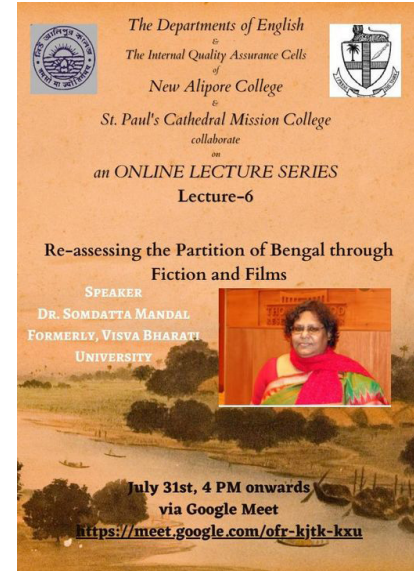

The first speaker was Dr. Somdatta Mandal, Former Professor, Vishva Bharati University, who presented a paper on the portrayal of Partition in the works of Tagore and other Bengali writers. She highlighted the role of literature in preserving the memories of Partition and how it serves as a tool for understanding the social and political contexts of the time.

The second speaker was Dr. Amitava Roy, who focused on the works of English writers who wrote about Partition, such as V.S. Naipaul and Salman Rushdie. He discussed the themes of identity, displacement, and trauma in their works and how these authors represented the voices of the marginalized.

Following the presentations, there was a lively discussion among the participants, who raised thought-provoking questions and shared their own perspectives on the topic. The seminar concluded with a vote of thanks by the organizer, who expressed appreciation for the insightful presentations and stimulating discussion.

Overall, the seminar provided an excellent platform for scholars and students to explore the complex and nuanced perspectives on the Partition of Bengal through the medium of literature. The event was well-attended and generated significant interest in the topic.

The celebration ended with a vote of thanks by the convenor of the cultural Sub-committee, who thanked the participants and the audience for their support and encouragement.

provide insights into the nature and scope of these subjects and to answer students' queries about pursuing a Masters in Political Science and IR.

The chat session was interactive and allowed students to ask questions and share their thoughts on the subjects. The session covered various topics such as the syllabus, career opportunities, and the skills required for pursuing a Masters in Political Science and IR. The session emphasized the importance of critical thinking, research, and analytical skills in these fields and how students could develop these skills during their Masters program.

The chat session also highlighted the interdisciplinary nature of Political Science and IR, and how students from diverse academic backgrounds could pursue a Masters in these fields. The session also discussed the opportunities for research and internships available to students during their Masters program and provided a valuable platform for the exchange of ideas and perspectives on this important event in India's history.

Covid 19: How to Cope with the Pandemic - Physically and Mentally

Speaker: Dr. Debdatta Bhattacharya, Clinical Director and Chief of Cathlab Services, Rabindranath Tagore Institute of Cardiac Sciences

New Alipore College organized a seminar on "How to Cope with the Pandemic - Physically and Mentally" to provide support and guidance to individuals during the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic on Dec 02, 2021. The seminar aimed to educate attendees on how to cope with the pandemic's physical and mental health impacts, which have been increasingly challenging for people globally.

The talk was delivered by Dr. Somdatta Bhattacharya, Clinical Director and Chief of Cathlab Services, Rabindranath Tagore Institute of Cardiac Sciences, Kolkata

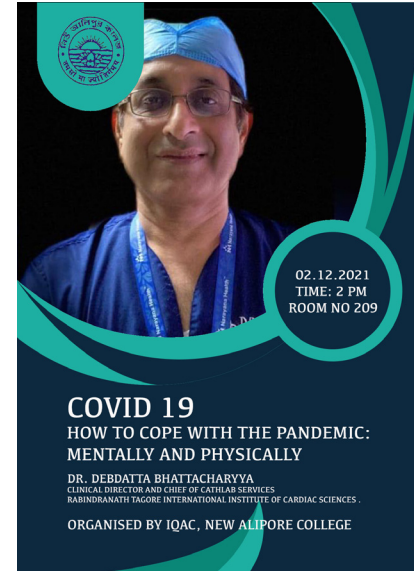

Dr. Bhattacharya highlighted the importance of maintaining a healthy lifestyle during the pandemic, including eating a balanced diet, engaging in regular exercise, and getting enough sleep. He also discussed the importance of adhering to safety guidelines such as wearing masks and practicing social distancing to prevent the spread of the virus.

He also focused on the psychological impact of the pandemic and how it has led to an increase in stress, anxiety, and depression. He provided several coping strategies, including practicing mindfulness, maintaining a positive outlook, staying connected with loved ones, and seeking professional help when needed.

After the presentations, there was a question and answer session, where attendees had the opportunity to ask the speakers questions related to the pandemic's physical and mental health impacts. The speakers provided answers and further elaborated on the coping strategies they shared in their presentations.

The seminar provided valuable insights into coping with the pandemic's physical and mental health impacts. Attendees left with a greater understanding of how to take care of their physical and mental health during these challenging times. The speakers emphasized that while the pandemic has created significant challenges, it has also presented an opportunity for personal growth and resilience. The seminar was successful in achieving its objectives, and attendees left feeling empowered and equipped with new tools to cope with the ongoing pandemic.

International Mathematics Day Celebration

Speakers: Prof Manjusha Majumdar, Ex-Faculty, Dept of Pure Mathematics, University of Calcutta and Narayan Chandra Chattopadhyay, Ex-Associate Seva Bharati Mahavidyalaya, Jhargram

The Department of Mathematics at New Alipore College organized a Mathematics Day Celebration on 22nd December 2021, to commemorate the birth anniversary of the famous mathematician Srinivasa Ramanujan. The event was held in the college auditorium and was attended by faculty members, students, and guests. The celebration began with a welcome address by the Head of the Department of Mathematics, Dr. Rita Chattopadhyay. She spoke about the significance of Mathematics Day and the importance of mathematics in our daily lives. He emphasized that Mathematics is not just a subject, but a way of thinking that helps in problem-solving and decision-making.

Prof. Manjusha Majumdar and Narayan Chandra Chattopadhyay delivered a talk on "Recreational Activities with some number and beauty of Ramanujan Number 1729" at the Mathematics Department of Jadavpur University. The talk highlighted the significance of the Ramanujan Number 1729, and how it can be used for recreational activities.

The speakers discussed the various properties of the number, such as its being the smallest number that can be expressed as the sum of two cubes in two different ways. They also talked about its relevance in number theory and how it has inspired mathematicians for many years.

The speakers then introduced the recreational activities that can be done with the number, such as puzzles and games. They demonstrated how the number can be used to create interesting patterns and shapes, which can be used to engage students in learning mathematics.

The talk was well-received by the audience. The speakers engaged the audience with their interactive presentation style and answered questions from the audience with great enthusiasm.

Gender Sensitisation Programme

Chief guest, Samantak Das, Hon'ble Pro VC, Jadavpur University

A book launch event was organized at New Alipore College on 10th March, 2022. The event started with the lighting of the lamp by the chief guest, Samantak Das, and other dignitaries present at the event. The first book to be launched was "Rabindranather Chabi Jagat," written by Sri Rajdeep Dutta. The book delves into the world of Rabindranath Tagore's art and showcases his paintings, illustrations, and sketches. The author presented a brief overview of the book and shared his experience of researching and writing it.

The second book launched was the "College Journal," which was edited by Dr. Somdutta Banerjee and Dhrubojyoti Banerjee. The journal covers the various academic and extracurricular activities organized by the college throughout the year. It also features articles by faculty members and students on various topics related to academics and current affairs.

The chief guest, Samantak Das, praised the efforts of the college and the authors in promoting literature and urged the audience to read and appreciate the books. The event concluded with the distribution of copies of the books to the guests and the faculty members.

Self-defence

Sensei Subir Majumdar, President, Okinawa Shorin-Ryu Shorinkan Karate-do and Kubudo Association West Bengal, Judge, Asian Karate Federation

New Alipore College recently organized a workshop on “Self-Defense” by Sensei Subir Majumdar, a renowned Karate trainer. The workshop aimed to teach students about the importance of self-defense and equip them with the necessary skills to protect themselves in threatening situations.

Sensei Majumdar started the workshop by explaining the importance of being aware of one's surroundings and being prepared to defend oneself. He then demonstrated various self-defense techniques, such as blocking, striking, and grappling, and how they can be used effectively to escape from dangerous situations. Throughout the workshop, Sensei Majumdar stressed the importance of practicing self-defense techniques regularly to develop muscle memory and be able to use them instinctively in a threatening situation. He also provided tips on how to use everyday objects as weapons in self-defense, such as using a pen as a striking tool or a bag as a shield.

The workshop was highly interactive, and students had the opportunity to practice the techniques demonstrated by Sensei Majumdar. The trainer also provided individual feedback to each participant, ensuring that they were performing the techniques correctly.

In addition to physical techniques, Sensei Majumdar also discussed the importance of mental and emotional preparedness in self-defense. He emphasized the need for students to be confident and assertive, and to trust their instincts in potentially dangerous situations.

The workshop was well-received by students, who found it to be informative and engaging. It provided a safe and supportive environment for students to learn and practice self-defense techniques, and also helped to build their confidence and self-esteem. Overall, the workshop was a valuable experience for all the participants, and it succeeded in achieving its objective of promoting self-defense among students.

Special Lecture on "Evolution of Print Journalism in the Last Three Decades"

The Department of Journalism organized a special lecture on "Evolution of print journalism in the last three decades" on 29th June, 2022 in collaboration with Muraliudhar Girls' College, Kidderpore College, Vijaygarh Jyotish Ray College and Rishu Bankim Chandra College. The speaker was Madhumita Dutta, Special Correspondent at Anandabazar Patrika, one of the leading newspapers in India. The lecture was well-attended by students and faculty members who were interested in learning about the changes and advancements in the field of journalism.

Madhumita Dutta discussed how technology has played a major role in shaping the industry, with the introduction of digital devices, the internet, and social media, having a significant impact on the way news is produced, distributed, and consumed. The speaker emphasized that these technological advancements have enabled journalists to reach a much larger audience, but at the same time, have raised concerns about the credibility and accuracy of information.

The speaker also touched upon the importance of ethics and responsibility in journalism, highlighting that while technology has made it easier to access and spread information, it has also led to the spread of misinformation and fake news.

In conclusion, the lecture provided a comprehensive overview of the evolution of print journalism in the last three decades, highlighting the impact of technology, the challenges faced by the industry, and the importance of maintaining ethical standards. The lecture was informative and thought-provoking, offering insights

100 Years of Satyajit Ray

'100 Years of Satyajit Ray' - a seminar organised by Department of Journalism, Kidderpore College in collaboration with Dept of Journalism, New Alipore College. Prof Sanjay Mukhopadhyay, Prof Soumitra Basu, Dr Abir Chattopadhyay were panelists and spoke on different aspects of Ray's life and work. The seminar was followed by a Photography Competition themed 'Pather Panchali' and a Documentary Film making competition.

On the 100-year anniversary of the birth of legendary filmmaker Satyajit Ray, Kiderpore College, in collaboration with New Alipore College, organized a seminar to honor the director's immense contributions to Indian cinema. The seminar was attended by a panel of renowned speakers, including Prof. Sanjay Mukhopadhyay, Prof. Soumitra Basu, Dr. Abir Chattopadhyay, and Dr. Rajesh Das.

The seminar began with a brief overview of Satyajit Ray's life and career, courtesy of Prof. Mukhopadhyay. He explained how the director's films often commented on social issues like poverty and gender inequality, and how his unique approach to cinema changed the face of Indian film in the 20th century.

Prof. Basu discussed the way Ray's films often told stories through a combination of complex themes, creative cinematography, and meaningful dialogue. He argued that Ray's films were as much a reflection of his own life, experiences, and beliefs as they were a reflection of Indian society.

Dr. Chattopadhyay provided an in-depth look at the humanistic themes that permeate Ray's films, examining how he used his art to explore topics like mental health, morality, and justice. Dr. Das further explored how Ray's films often served as a platform to criticize the government and its policies, as well as how his work remains relevant today.

(Dr. Jaydeep Sarangi)
Principal
New Alipore College

The seminar concluded with a discussion of the legacy of Satyajit Ray and the impact of his films on modern Indian cinema. All speakers agreed that Ray's films continue to inspire and influence filmmakers around the world, and that his work will remain relevant and beloved for generations to come. With the skills they need to succeed in their future careers.

The course was a huge success, and the students who participated reported that they gained a deeper understanding of the fundamentals of journalism and the changes and advancements in the field. They also noted that they felt more confident in their writing, reporting, and editing skills and that they had a better understanding of the ethical and professional standards expected of journalists.

Students' Achievement:

Two short documentary films made by students and faculty of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, New Alipore College won the 1st Prize and 2nd Prize in the Documentary Film competition section at the seminar '100 Years of Satyajit Ray'. The success of these two films is a great example of the power of collaboration, and a testament to the creativity and hard work of these two teams. It is also a fitting tribute to the legacy of Satyajit Ray and his immense contribution to the world of cinema.
