

E cell, BUSINESS IDEA

I student of bcom 6th semester of new alipore college, Saptarshi Biswas have always faced a struggle to find an all rounder solution to most of backend work of an average MSME production company. Dedicated applications for things like "costing, inventories, purchase orders, cash book, automated attendance and payroll records" are already available in the market however what if all of these can be made available under one roof that too in a more efficient and user friendly way? That is exactly what i am trying to come up with. Now the question is how to execute the idea? I have thought of initially developing a website because as of now I dont have the funds for two applications for both mobile phone and computer, in this case an website is the obvious way to go. I and my friends have started implementing the ideas and already trying to finish the project within september. Once the project is finished i will test my creation, use it for my family businesses, eventually fund it and enter into a full scale business mode as an LLP.

Thanking you, i would really appreciate any guidance from your part.
